Occupational Therapists (OT)

- Work with children and their families to help improve skills and participation in day to day activities.
- Activities may include feeding, self-care, playing, and school skills such as printing or cutting with scissors.
- OTs also help with Emotional Regulation, when kids are having difficulty getting calm, alert, and ready to learn, play, or interact with others.

Physiotherapists (PT)

- Provide assessment and treatment for children with difficulties in muscle strength, range and quality of movement, tone and gross motor development.
- Treatment includes teaching strategies to the family, caregivers and clients to improve function.
- Physiotherapy also provides support in accessing mobility equipment such as wheelchairs and walkers.

Speech Language Pathologists (SLP)

- Provide assessment and treatment for children with communication delays or disorders.
- Communication includes speech, sound production, understanding and producing language and using language to interact with others.
- SLPs also provide assessment and treatment for children with feeding and/or swallowing concerns.

Social Workers

- Social Workers provide support and assistance to children and youth and their families who may be experiencing a variety of challenges including coping strategies, loss/grief, relationships and communication.

Child / Youth Workers

- Child and Youth Workers plan and implement personalized plans that support each client's goals for improving social, emotional, and behaviour development.
